HOME OCCUPATIONS

Have you ever wondered if you need a permit for operating a home occupation? The following is the Town Ordinance regarding home occupations.

The Town of Dewey-Humboldt does not require a business license.

§ 153.077 HOME OCCUPATION.

Review criteria.

Incidental: A home occupation shall be conducted in a primary dwelling or in an attached or detached accessory structure and shall be clearly incidental to the use of the primary structure as a dwelling or accessory structure as a garage, workshop, storage shed or barn.

Appearance: In no way shall the appearance of the structure or premises be so altered or the conduct of the occupation within the structure be such that it can be recognized as serving a nonresidential use (either by color, materials, construction, lighting, signs, sounds or noises, vibrations, display of equipment and the like).

Nuisance: The home occupation shall not cause any sustained or unpleasant noises, vibrations, noxious fumes, dust, odors or glare. The use shall not create any radio or television interference or cause any parking or additional traffic beyond what a normal single family residence would generate in the immediate neighborhood.

Employees: No one other than a resident of the dwelling shall be employed in the conduct of a home occupation.

Storage: No storage of materials and/or supplies, including vehicles or equipment used in the occupation, indoors or outdoors, shall be permitted which will be hazardous to surrounding neighbors or detrimental to the residential character of the neighborhood. Outside storage shall be in keeping with outside storage requirements for a single family residence per this chapter.

Vehicles: The home occupation shall not utilize or rely upon delivery or service from large vehicles not customary in residential areas.

Traffic: The use shall not generate pedestrian or vehicular traffic beyond that normal to the district in which it is located.

Signage: Signage shall be in keeping with §§ 153.125 through 153.130 regarding nameplate identification signage for a residence and shall not advertise the home occupation.

Enforcement: Home occupations, where permitted, shall be subject to issuance of a home occupation permit and shall comply with the noted criteria. The home occupation application shall be subject to review by the Zoning Administrator at any time. Violation of any of the criteria for a home occupation as set out in this chapter shall be grounds for cancellation of the home occupation permit. The Zoning Administrator shall have the authority to revoke the home occupation permit if it has been demonstrated that the terms and conditions of this section have been violated.

Appeal: A decision of the Zoning Administrator approving, disapproving or imposing conditions, regarding the home occupation, may be appealed to the Board of Adjustment. REGIONAL NEWS

FIRE RISK

By Dennis B Light, Prescott Fire Chief

Attached is a very informative and detailed article about fire risk in the west for which the Prescott Basin area shows many of the attributes that led to the loss of life in the Paradise Fire of last year.

I felt compelled to share as there are some in the development community who sense that the current Wildland Urban Interface (WUI) Code is overly restrictive and burdensome on their ability to build homes. It really is a case of the squeaky wheel getting the grease presently, as many of these same folks go directly with elected officials to convey that the WUI Code is a problem and are now suggesting that it be severely modified and/or not re-adopted as it should be every 6 years or less.

Frankly, it's a case, in this Fire Chief's opinion, that most of the "easy to develop" areas in the WUI have already been developed. Thus, developing more difficult areas to meet the Code are more of a challenge, and to some degree, add cost to their bottom line. In this Chief's opinion, the development community doesn't care to minimize their profit margins in order to develop in accordance with the applicable codes.

Abandonment or doing away with the WUI Code will place this great community at even greater risk than exists today, and as such, if you have a chance and are like me and want to ensure a safe community, please inform your elected officials of the need to adopt the 2018 Wildland Urban Interface Code. This community's survivability, and equally important the Region's firefighter's survivability, depends on it.

IRON KING MINE/ HUMBOLDT SMELTER SUPERFUND SITE

By Jeff Dhont, Project Manager

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) oversees work to address contamination from the Iron King Mine/Humboldt Smelter Superfund site. Superfund is a program that provides the authority and funding to clean up sites with contamination that pose a threat to human health or to the environment. The industrial operations at the former Iron King Mine and the separate Humboldt Smelter took place over many decades, from the late 1800s through the 1960s. They left behind arsenic and lead contamination. This contamination includes mine tailings piles, tailings and contaminated sediments that move downstream in drainages during heavy rains, and contaminated soils.

To understand the nature and extent of contamination in detail, in 2016, EPA finished an extensive sampling study, called a remedial investigation. EPA is now working on a study of the options to clean up the contamination in the non-residential portions of the site. This is called a feasibility study. EPA plans to discuss the options in the feasibility study for cleanup with the community in the next several months.

EPA has also investigated over 500 residential properties. In 2017, EPA completed a cleanup of soils at about 50 residential yards where cleanup was warranted.

Over the past few months, people have raised specific concerns regarding the site. EPA is making plans to travel to Dewey-Humboldt to meet with community members to discuss such concerns. Information about the site is available at the Dewey-Humboldt Town Library, located at 2735 N. Corral Street in Dewey-Humboldt. Additionally, EPA is also working to provide updated information on our new website: <http://www.epa.gov/superfund/ironkingmine>.

If you have specific concerns, please feel free to contact community involvement coordinator Yolanda Sanchez at 415-972-3880 (Sanchez.yolanda@epa.gov); or project manager Jeff Dhont at 415-972-3020 (dhont.jeff@epa.gov).
